

The Novo Nordisk UK Research Foundation (NNUKRF)

Call for Applications 2023.

Fellowships for healthcare professionals in all areas related to diabetes.

Type 1 Fellowships joint funded with JDRF*

Research Grants.

Clinical project and education awards (Fund).

NNUKRF is now inviting applications for research and education funding in diabetes for 2023.

Awards are made on a competitive basis.

Applicants are preferred to be working in a patient facing role but this is not essential.

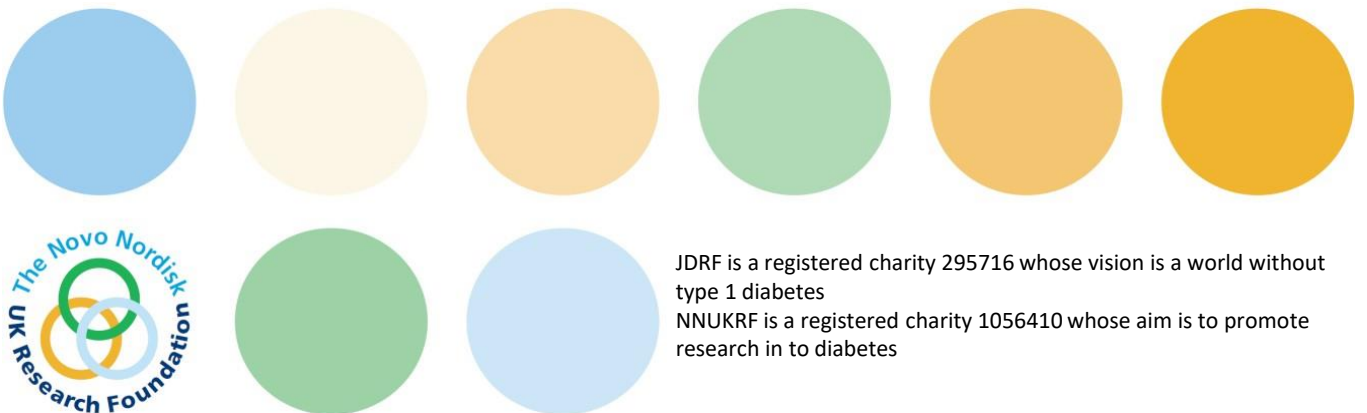

Closing date for Fellowship and Grant 5 December 2022

Closing date for Fund applications 2 February 2023

Application forms and Information for Applicants is available on the NNUKRF website

novonordiskfoundation.org.uk

E-mail ukresearchfoundation@novonordisk.com

JDRF is a registered charity 295716 whose vision is a world without type 1 diabetes
NNUKRF is a registered charity 1056410 whose aim is to promote research in to diabetes

Research Fellowships – this award is open to all healthcare professionals (e.g. doctors, nurses, podiatrists, dieticians...) working in diabetes and wishing to undertake a PhD: 3 years full-time, 4 years full-time with MSc year 1, or 5 years part-time.

*Applications for type 1 diabetes projects may be joint funded with JDRF (JDRF.org.uk)

Grant Awards – small research project grants in diabetes up to £12,000 open to all applicants.

Fund Awards – for nurses and allied healthcare professionals in diabetes care.

Attendance at a national or international meeting (preference to those presenting their work) up to £1,000.

An educational activity (eg course or training) up to £2,000.

Clinical project up to £5,000.