

ABCD (Diabetes Care) Ltd

Terms of Reference for Committee Members

The ABCD Committee is responsible for leading, developing and implementing the activities of the ABCD and provides leadership and professional guidance. It aims to inspire, motivate, and provide the appropriate direction to the membership and external groups to achieve the charity's aims and objectives which are as follows:

- To provide specialist training in relation to the management of diabetes and complications.
- To promote skills in relation to effective management of diabetes to help improve outcomes.
- To inform public about diabetes and associated complications.
- To represent diabetes specialists widely to help promote development and preservation of excellent clinical services.
- To promote clinical research activity within the field and contribute to national audit.
- To promote publication in the society journal
- To promote life-long learning and mentorship

The committee is accountable to the ABCD executive, of which the chair is a member. The ABCD Executive is responsible for providing the financial, governance and performance management framework within which ABCD operates.

Composition of the ABCD Committee

The committee shall consist of not more than 12 elected members. Other members and/or individuals may be co-opted to the committee to provide expertise on specific programmes/ activities for the organisation. The ABCD operations team supports the committee and chair.

Elected Committee Members

The length of office for a committee member is three years. A committee member may serve a maximum of 3 terms of office subject to successful election by the membership. Thereafter, the committee member is entitled to reapply for committee membership following an absence of three years provided the committee is convinced they are adding unique value and are not putting a barrier in the way of new people joining the committee. No member shall serve more than three terms of office unless a resolution is passed by the executive authorising election for a further term.

When a vacancy occurs on the committee, either by resignation or completion of a term of office, nominations for membership will be requested from the ABCD members by the chair or general secretary. To be eligible to stand for election to the committee a member must be a voting member of ABCD and be aware of and willing to accept responsibilities of the office and to work within the guidelines. The elected members shall be the only members of the ABCD committee with voting rights.

The list of nominees will be circulated to the executive team who will approve the final list and will be distributed to the ABCD membership for election.

if the number of nominees corresponds to the number and nature of the committee vacancies then those nominees will be elected automatically to the committee without recourse to a vote. If the number of nominees exceeds the number of places available, members will be invited to vote for as many candidates as they wish up to a maximum corresponding to the number of available vacancies. No voting preference will be required. Votes not received by the closing date, will be invalid. The appropriate number of nominees with the highest votes cast will be elected to the available places on the committee.

Co-opted Committee Members:

The committee shall have the power to co-opt additional members as it sees fit to give support and advice on a specific area of activity for the duration of their role, for example a member may be co-opted to provide advice and information on collaborative programmes with other societies. The appointment of co-opted members ceases as soon as activity is completed of their role in the activity concludes.

Committee Responsibilities and Expectations

The committee, supported by the chair, shall be responsible for:
