

STATEMENT ON UNINTERRUPTED DIABETES SUPPLIES

This statement provides an update on the availability of health technologies designed to support people with diabetes in the UK. Technologies include: blood glucose monitors, flash glucose monitors, continuous glucose monitors, insulin pumps and all associated consumables.

With regards to the coronavirus (COVID-19) situation, the below signatories wish to reassure all users of diabetes technology that they continue to supply patients without any significant disruption to their supply chains, and that product availability remains at a regular level.

To ensure this continues, we ask healthcare professionals, and people with diabetes, to be mindful not to prescribe or order above normal levels. Stockpiling is unnecessary and may create short-term problems for other users when there is enough supply for everyone in the mid to long-term.

Individual companies will contact healthcare professionals and people with diabetes as appropriate if issues arise.
